I was born in Birmingham, trained in Stratford On Avon and at Dartington College (BA Hons), and have spent the past 20 odd years living very happily in Gloucestershire, with a brief interlude of 4 years living in a rabbit hutch in Paris.

I co direct Frank Partners with Neil, and previously to that was a director of the highly successful Barking Productions and Instant Wit, drama based training and a comedy improvisation show.

I've worked in training and development for about 12 years, project managing with clients such as News International, EDF Energy, Société Générale and Barclays. I recently ran a bi lingual Forum Theatre session in Paris for 150 employees, but am equally happy working with 8 builders in Nottingham.

I'm particularly enjoying working with people on difficult conversations, giving challenging and supportive feedback – but essentially changing the dynamics so that change is possible.

I'm also a professional actress, have worked in TV – Historyonics, She Wolf of London, Anatomy of a Crime - Radio – Radio 4 plays, Woman's Hour, continuity for BBC2 - Cartoons - for Channel 4, voice overs for commercials including 3 years as campaign voice for the Co Op, Dr Who, various projects with Aardman Animations, etc. I've performed with theatre companies regionally, and nationally, in London, the US, Canada and in France and Spain – and have also worked on a number of training films.

I've worked with Senior Managers at Barclays, M&S, News International, EDF and the Cabinet Office, and also with young offenders in high security prisons, teenage mums and unemployed young people in France.

I continue to work as an actress outside of training and development, and I think this adds a depth and integrity to what we offer with Frank Partners.
