

Neil Bett

Neil trained at the Bristol Old Vic Theatre School and worked as an actor, singer and presenter for several years in the theatre and on screen. He then progressed to a career helping people in organisations communicate effectively, and that what he has been doing for the last 26 years.

He has been a Partner with Frank Partners LLP since its inception in 2010. He spends much of his time designing programmes, writing scenarios and managing relationships with clients and associates. Additionally, he has worked as a facilitator, coach and actor nationally and internationally for a wide range of organisations including Electrocomponents, Sanger, Dyson, National Audit Office, Christie's, CRH, USS and Innocent.

Neil brings qualities of empathy, creativity, humanity, fun and pragmatism to his work.

When not working, he spends as much time as possible with family and friends. He sings in an all-male a cappella sextet, runs, walks, reads, watches movies and visits the theatre as much as possible. He takes a keen interest in politics and current affairs.

Qualifications

Bristol Old Vic Theatre School: 3-year Acting & Drama

ILM Level 7: Executive Coaching and Mentoring

Myers-Briggs Company: MBTI Step 1

Occupational Testing: Level A & B

Pegasus: NLP Practitioner

Short courses

Time to Think Foundation: Mitzi Wyman Associates

Mediation: Consensio

Presence: Patsy Rodenburg

Transactional Analysis: TA 101

Storytelling: Paul Z Jackson

What Clients Have Said About Me

"Neil's biggest skill and asset is simply "being Neil". Throughout all of our sessions he was calm, considered and showed not just empathy but real interest in me as an individual. He was quick to work out my character strengths and weaknesses and would point these out in a helpful context that continues to resonate weeks later."

Coaching client, leading sports brand

"I had the opportunity to work directly with Neil during an Executive Leadership program we held for our top leaders. Not only did he help design one of the most impactful parts of the overall session, but he delivered it superbly. Neil is an experienced coach, and he has a style that resonated perfectly with our most experienced leaders."

Jim Reid, Chief HR Officer, Rogers Communications, Canada

"I have worked with Neil for over 25 years and have always been impressed with his creativity, relationship skills and flexibility. He really gets the business agenda and brings great authenticity and integrity to his work."

Nick Cowley, Director, The Oxford Group

"I know I can trust Neil to bring a sharp enquiring brain, well-judged creative solutions, energy, presence and a great team; and I know that we'll work incredibly hard and have lots of fun."

Catrina Hewitson, Consultant

"I have worked with Neil on quite a few occasions and I've no doubt I will continue to work with him in the future. Neil has the ability to truly understand our needs and delivers each time in a fun and creative way. Neil is an expert in his field and it's always a pleasure to work with him."

Siobhan Brett, former HR Business Partner, News UK

"I'd just like to say thank you for your brilliant work on Wednesday. Your session was high-energy, all encompassing, insightful and most importantly, relevant."

Chris Harrison, National Field Service Manager, Dyson